

Exporting References from PubMed into RefWorks

- 1) Go to PubMed through the Libraries page at <http://www.library.unlv.edu/search/databases/index.html#P>
 - a) It is important to go through the Libraries page, NOT directly to PubMed, so that you have access to subscribed journals.
- 2) Do your search.
- 3) From the list of references mark the ones you want to export by clicking on the box to the left of the citation.

- 4) In upper right side of screen click on down arrow next to "Send."

The screenshot shows the 'Send to' dropdown menu open in PubMed. The dialog box is titled 'Choose Destination' and contains the following options:

- File
- Clipboard
- Collections
- E-mail
- Order

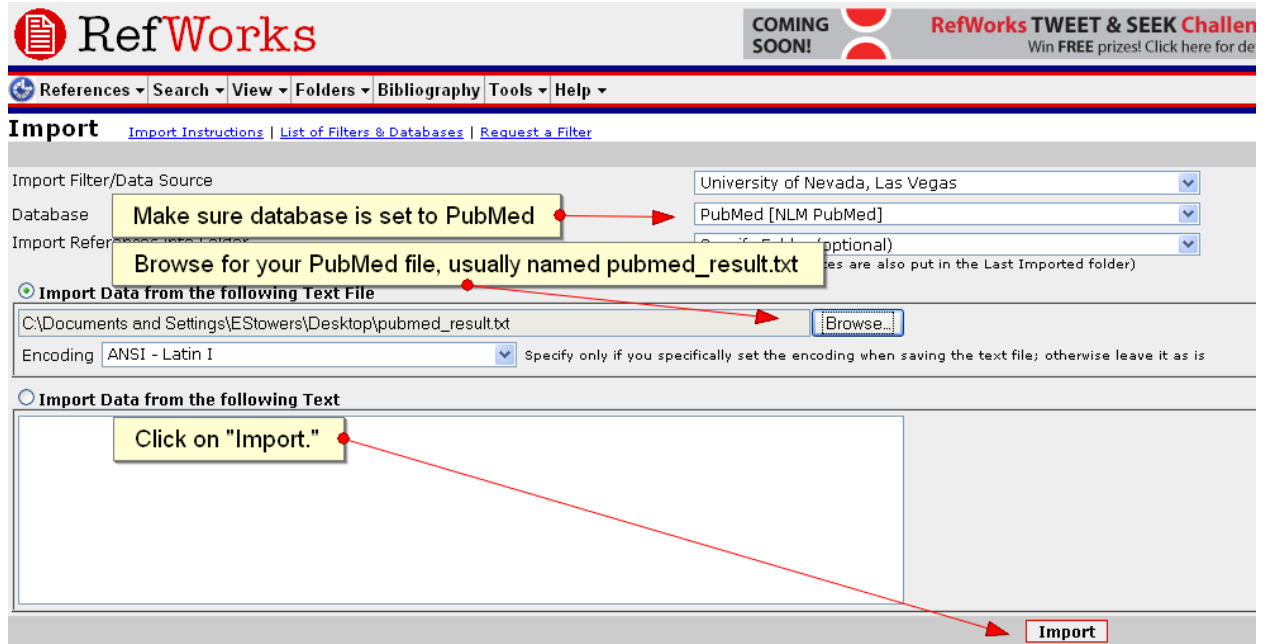

Below these options, it says 'Download 2 items.' and provides the following settings:

- Format: MEDLINE (dropdown menu)
- Sort by: Recently Added (dropdown menu)
- Create File (button)

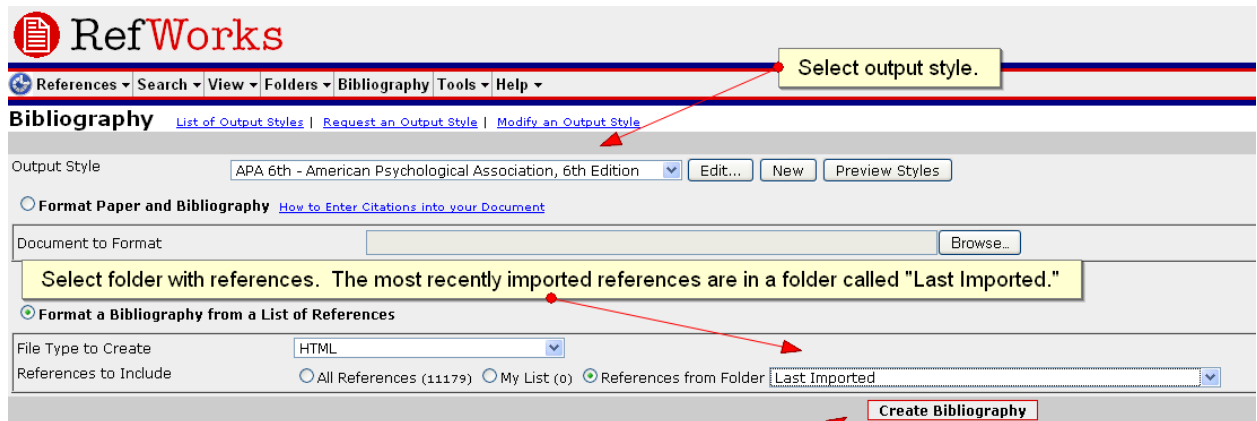

Three yellow callout boxes with red arrows point to specific elements in the dialog:

- 'Click on down arrow to set your options' points to the 'Send to' dropdown arrow.
- 'Choose File' points to the 'File' radio button.
- 'Change format to Medline' points to the 'MEDLINE' dropdown menu.
- 'Click on Create File' points to the 'Create File' button.

- 5) After your file is saved open another window, or exit PubMed if you are finished.
- 6) Log on to RefWorks.
 - a) Set up an account by going to the RefWorks link at <http://www.library.unlv.edu/search/databases/index.html#R>
 - b) If you already have a RefWorks account you can go directly to <http://www.refworks.com>
- 7) Once logged in to Refworks, in the upper left side of the screen mouse over "References" and click on "Import."

- 8) To create a bibliography, click on "Bibliography" in the top toolbar.
