Biographical Note

Musician Cal McKinley was born on December 13, 1918. McKinley was a guitarist during the Big Band Era. McKinley toured with the Andrew Sisters and the Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey Bands. He also did guitar work in Bing Crosby and Bob Hope movies, and did studio work for Decca Records. A native of Chicago, Illinois he moved to Las Vegas, Nevada in 1967. He was active in Las Vegas as a talk show host and later he portrayed the bumbling character "Vinnie Van Gogh" in television commercials. He passed away on September 9, 1989.
Historical Note

In May 1942, George Goodwin, a radio station director released the first Tune-Dex cards. They were printed on 3" x 5" cards. Goodwin provided lyrics, melodies, and chord symbols as well as copyright information. Professional musicians could subscribe and get the cards by mail. The subscriber had no choice in the cards they received, however they were always the popular music of the day. Goodwin promoted the cards until 1963 when poor health forced his retirement.

According to Barry Kernfeld's book, The Story of Fake Books, by the 1950s gangsters were duplicating the Tune-Dex information into bound fake books with prices between $10 to $25.
