Biographical Note

Eileen (Milstein) Brookman (1921-2004) was member of the Nevada Assembly from 1967-1977 and 1987-1990. Small in stature but nicknamed "Queenie" by her admirers, she advocated passionately for the rights of persons with disabilities, minorities, people of low incomes, women, and especially the elderly. Brookman entered state politics in 1962 when she was appointed Indian Commissioner by Nevada Governor Grant Sawyer. She was also active in many organizations, including the NAACP, the Senior Citizen Resource Center Advisory Board, the Clark County Association on Mental Health, and the National Conference of Christians and Jews. She served as Anti-Defamation League (ADL) chairman of the Las Vegas, Nevada chapter of B'nai B'rith, and was also a lifetime member of Hadassah and the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Shalom. In 1982 Brookman was chairman of the Nevada delegation to the White House Conference on Aging, and was subsequently appointed to the Nevada Commission on Aging. She received many local and regional awards, including Clark County Humanitarian Mother of the Year, Outstanding Woman of the West, Nevada Distinguished Citizen, and B'nai B'rith Outstanding Woman of the Year. Eileen B. Brookman Elementary School in Las Vegas, Nevada is named in her honor.

Eileen Milstein was born on October 25, 1921, in Denver, Colorado. The Milstein family relocated to Southern California and Eileen attended Eagle Rock High School in Los Angeles and Los Angeles City College. She married George Brookman in 1941, while he was in the US Army. After the birth of their two children the family moved to Las Vegas, Nevada, where George became a general contractor and Eileen entered the political arena.

During her 16 years in the legislature Brookman served on some of the most important Assembly committees, including Government Affairs, Health and Welfare, and Education. She was the vice-chairman of the Legislative Functions and Assembly Ways and Means committees, and she co-chaired the Clark County Assembly Delegation. In her last term, she served on the interim committee studying the Youth Services Division and the Juvenile Justice System, and was the Assembly Representative to the State Commission on Aging.

Brookman sponsored such legislative milestones as the reorganization of the Nevada National Guard, the adoption of the Nevada Code of Military Justice, the passage of the "hate crimes" bill for Nevada, and the creation of the Governor's Advisory Council on Education Relating to the Holocaust. During the 1975 legislative session, Brookman introduced a bill to eliminate pay toilets, which were a national issue of gender inequality at the time.

Brookman was a consistent supporter of legislation to establish and improve senior citizen programs. She sponsored the Older Americans Act, which created the State Division of Aging Services and secured funding for senior citizen benefits such as reduced transportation fares and the "Meals on Wheels" program. She also sponsored the creation of the Aging Services Division of the Department of Human Resources, the prohibition of discrimination in private employment on the basis of age, and the entitlement of senior citizens to vote by absentee ballot.

In 1990, Brookman ended her political career to attend to family matters. Eileen Brookman passed away in her Las Vegas home on July 1, 2004, after a battle with cancer; her husband died only a few weeks later. Both are survived by their daughter Deborah.

Scope and Contents Note

The collection is arranged into four series.

The Personal Papers series (1950-1995) is devoted mainly to Eileen Brookman's personal political endeavors, although it does have some folders on her family life. It includes speeches and research materials, letters of support and gratitude, plus bumper stickers, endorsements, and other campaign materials. The election returns from each of her campaigns are also included. There is extensive information on B'nai B'rith, including a scrapbook, clippings, programs, and correspondence.

The Political Materials series (1949-1990) contains more general information about state government and outlines the committees and functions that Brookman was involved with. There is extensive coverage of the 1982 White House Conference on Aging and the work she did in Nevada as a result of the conference. Her other involvements are outlined in folders on the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), the Women's Democratic Club, Nike House, Campus Security, American Business Women, and the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). Also included are correspondence, clippings, pamphlets, invitations, and photographs.

The third series, Scrapbook Materials (1941-1989), is mainly composed of scrapbook materials related to Eileen Brookman's political career and personal life. An oversized box contains many of Brookman's awards and certificates. Some of the scrapbook materials document a combination of Brookman's personal and political life, while others are more specific. There are two scrapbooks entitled "Gemco Student Scholarship Awards" and one about her husband George.

Series four, Materials added in 2005 (1967-2002), consists of materials donated in 2005 by the Brookman Estate after Eileen Brookman's death. The series mainly documents Brookman's work in the Nevada Assembly.
